“ . . . to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries . . . to strengthen the ties which unite us with other nations . . . to promote international cooperation . . . and thus to assist in the development of friendly, sympathetic, and peaceful relations between the United States and the other countries of the world.”

Continuous meaningful impact

In the 2021–22 program year, we continued celebrating the 75th anniversary of the global Fulbright Program, which we concluded with a very special Thank #Fulbright75 – Thanksgiving. Our celebrations did not end in 2022, as we also had our very own anniversary to highlight: In 1962, Fulbright Austria started administrating the USTA program on behalf of the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research (BMBWF). Since then, Fulbright Austria has placed over 10,000 USTAs in Austrian classrooms, where they facilitated English training and cultural exchange. In those 60 years, the USTAs in the classroom were many young Austrians’ first in-person exposure to US culture. These anniversaries and the wonderful stories our program participants shared during the celebrations gave us the strength and meaning needed in challenging times, when our community was struggling with waves of COVID-19 and with the effects of the Russian war in Ukraine.

We are proud of our program participants who started their Fulbright journey in 2021–22. During the program year, Fulbright Austria leveraged opportunities for 30 Austrians and 48 Americans in the Fulbright Program. In addition, 142 US citizens participated in the USTA program. This year we had the honor of hosting one US Fulbright Schuman student and one US Fulbright Schuman scholar in Austria and sending an Austrian Fulbright Schuman student and one Austrian Fulbright Schuman scholar to the US. The Fulbright Schuman award is unique, as it is co-funded by the US Department of State and the European Commission’s Directorate-General for Education and Culture and managed by the Fulbright commission in Brussels.

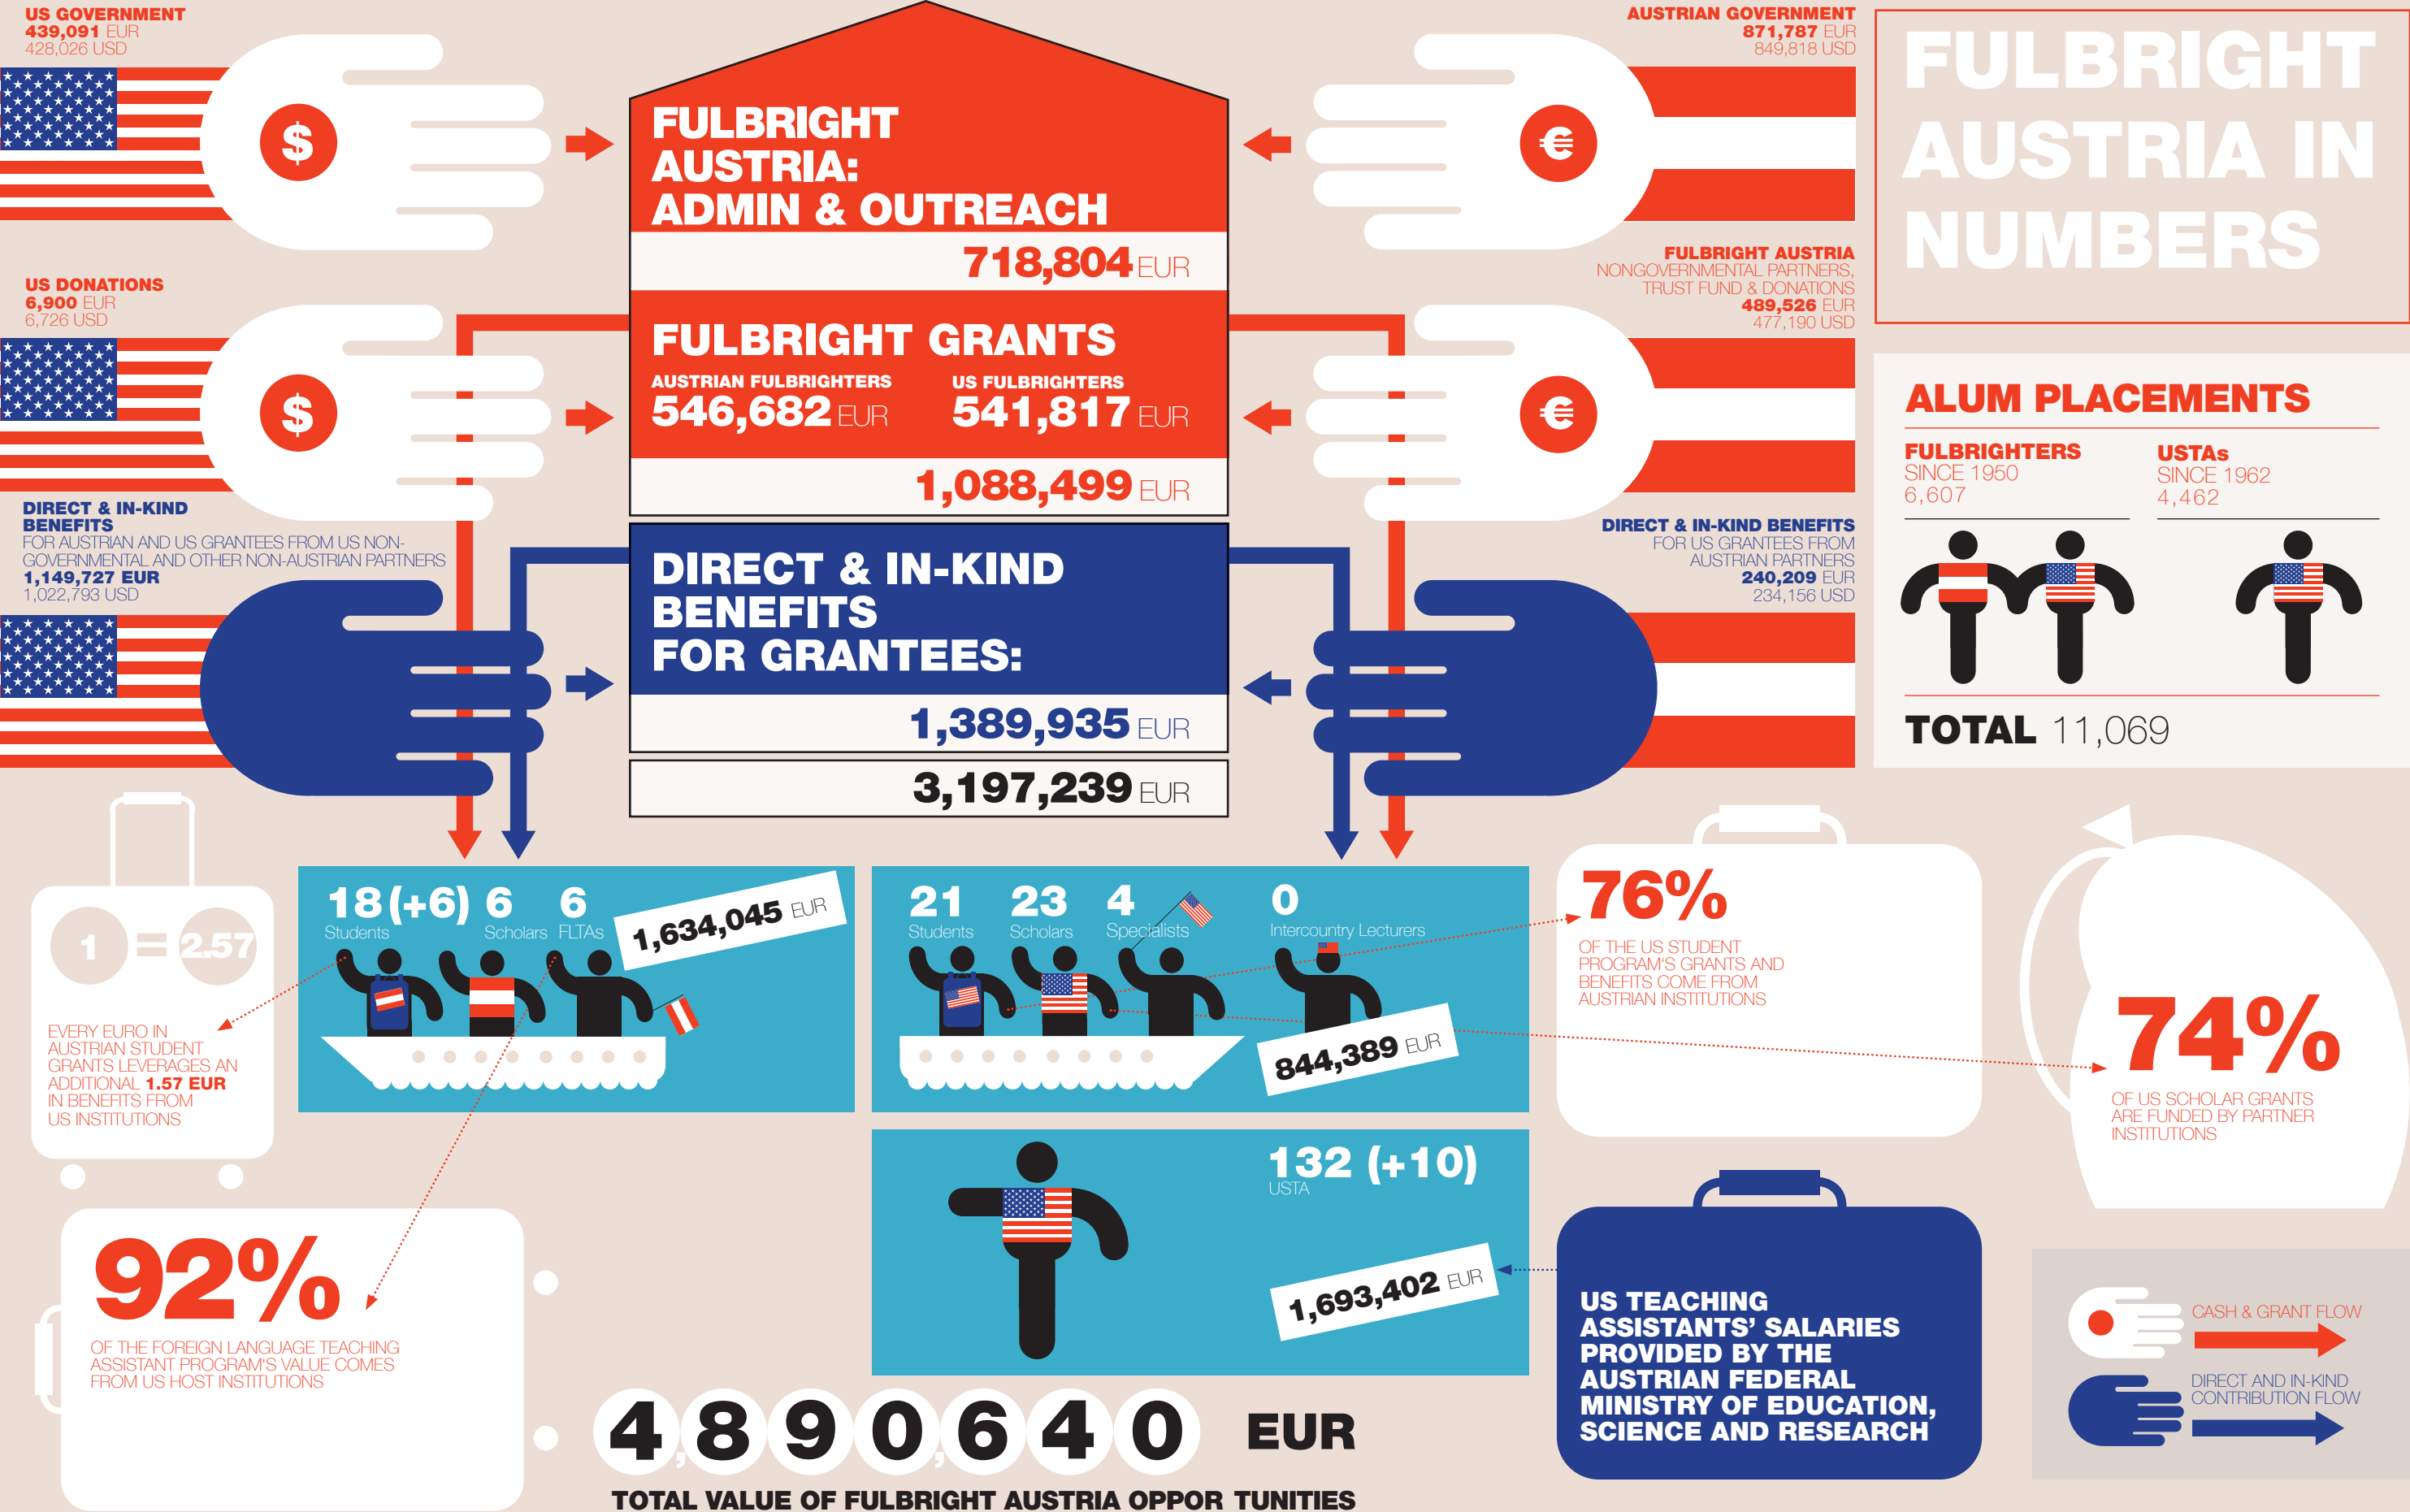

Looking back at this program year, I am deeply grateful for the continued support our program participants received from our friends and partners. The funding from the governments of the United States of America and the Republic of Austria, institutional partners, and private donors from both sides of the Atlantic allows Fulbright Austria to continue creating meaningful impact for future generations.

The impact of the program continues to grow: In 2021–22, Fulbright Austria concluded partnership agreements with the Medical University of Innsbruck and Paracelsus Medical University for two new awards for US Fulbright scholars in Austria. In addition, we expanded our student mobility agreement with the University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna to include opportunities for US performing-arts students. Fulbright Austria will continue to diversify its programs, and new developments will be announced in 2022–23.

Looking back at this exciting program year, I want to use this opportunity thank the entire Fulbright Austria team and the Fulbright Austria board members for their ongoing dedication to and work toward cultural exchange and mutual understanding, which are the pillars of our community. This annual report can only provide a glimpse into the riche experience Fulbright Austria’s programs have created for the 2021–22 program participants. After more than seven decades of bright minds, we know that our community will continue to foster mutual understanding long after their program has ended and will help the next generation of bright minds to shine even brighter.

Hermann Agis, PhD
Executive Director

As part of the global community of Fulbright programs, Fulbright Austria has promoted educational and cultural exchanges between Austria and the United States since 1950, thus making bilateral contributions to the promotion of global understanding and international cooperation. Fulbright Austria provides enterprising, creative, and diverse Austrian and US students, scholars, and teaching assistants with quality opportunities to learn, teach, and pursue research in the United States and Austria. We fulfill the Fulbright mission and mandate by managing the prestigious Fulbright scholarship program, coordinating a nationwide teaching assistantship program that places US university graduates in Austrian secondary schools, and counseling students and institutions of higher education on opportunities to study in the US as an EducationUSA advising center. Our work is sponsored by core contributions from the Austrian and US governments, with valuable additional support from other public, nongovernmental, and private partners in both countries.

The inaugural cohort of Austrian Fulbrighters, who crossed the Atlantic on the SS Constitution in 1951, included a substantial contingent of women. Women accounted for almost half of this group at a time when 90 percent of the students enrolled at Austrian universities were men.

HIGH LIGHTS

2022 SUMMERFEST AND 60 YEARS OF USTA PROGRAM

On the occasion of our third annual SummerFest, we commemorated the 60th anniversary of Fulbright Austria administering the USTA program on behalf of the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research. In addition to speeches from USTA alums, the executive director, and the chair and treasurer of the board, the more than 130 community members in attendance were also treated to a raffle featuring items donated by alums, current program participants, and partners.

FOUR ALUM CHATS FEATURING EIGHT ALUMS

In 2022, Fulbright Austria continued its “Alum Chat” series in a new format with two alums interviewing one another. The chats in 2022 featured Katherine Baber and Casey Hayes, Hannelore Veit and Gregory Perreault, Zoe Goldenberg-Hart and Thomas Pawlowski, and Sara Butler and Chase Yakaboski, and the discussions included a wide array of topics, showcasing the diverse interests and expertise of our community members.

US AMBASSADOR’S ANNUAL FULBRIGHT RECEPTION

After a brief discontinuation of the event during the pandemic, the annual reception hosted at the residence of the US ambassador to Austria returned for the 2021–22 program year. Returning 2020–21 Austrian Fulbright students, scholars, and teaching assistants mingled with the 2021–22 cohort of US Fulbright program participants as well as with representatives of partner institutions and members of Fulbright Austria’s alum community.

GLOBAL FULBRIGHT PROGRAM TURNS 75

As part of the global celebrations in honor of the Fulbright Program’s 75th anniversary, Fulbright Austria took part in the “75 days of Fulbright” campaign by hosting a Fulbright Day. During our Fulbright Day, we held a panel discussion focused on the achievements of our program and our alums, with special attention given to our Combined Grant and Community-based Combined grant—which are unique grants within the global Fulbright Program.

FULBRIGHT SEMINAR IN AMERICAN STUDIES

The annual Fulbright Seminar in American Studies is a great opportunity for US and Austrian program participants to come together and network. This year’s seminar was held online on gather.town and featured presentations from US Fulbright scholars and poster presentations from US Fulbright students. At the end of the seminar, attendees had an opportunity to meet in person at regional networking dinners held across Austria.

GOING-AWAY HEURIGER

At the end of the 2021–22 program year, Fulbright Austria continued the tradition of hosting going-away Heuriger events to bring departing program participants together one last time. The USTA going-away Heuriger marked the first chance that many of the 2021–22 USTAs had to come together in person. At the going-away Heuriger in June, homegoing US Fulbright students and scholars dined and drank with the outgoing cohort of 2022–23 Austrian program participants.

HOMECOMING

On 2 September 2022, Fulbright Austria hosted its annual homecoming event to welcome returning 2020–21 and 2021–22 Austrian Fulbrighters back to the country. The returning grantees received certificates of completion and enjoyed an evening mingling with other members of the Fulbright Austria community in attendance.

TWO NEW PARTNERSHIPS AND AWARDS

We are pleased to announce that during the 2021–22 program year, we concluded two new partner agreements with Paracelsus Medical University and the Medical University of Innsbruck. With these new partnerships, Fulbright Austria will be able to offer two US Fulbright scholar awards in the field of life sciences.

Wolfgang Fleischhacker, president of the Medical University of Innsbruck and Fulbright Austria alum, and Teta Moehs, 2021 chair of Fulbright Austria's board, signing the new agreement.

FUND RAISING & DEVELOP MENT

During the 2021–22 program year and despite the COVID-19 pandemic, Fulbright Austria successfully continued the professional outreach, fundraising, and development initiatives it launched in 2017–18. Fulbright Austria participated in the Austrian fundraising community and in Austria-wide campaigns, including “Wirtschaftstift,” “Vergiss mein nicht,” and “GivingTuesday.” Since 2017, Fulbright Austria has raised over €210,000 through Austrian donations and over €67,000 through US donations from eight decades of generous Austrian and US alums from the last eight decades as well as bighearted friends of Fulbright Austria. Donations made in Austrian were matched 1:1 thanks to matching funds in the amount of €150,000 made available to Fulbright Austria by the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research (BMBWF) in 2017 and again in 2020 to incentivize alum giving.

More than 190 alum donors made contributions throughout the 2021–22 program year. As a result of alum donations, Fulbright Austria will be in a position to sustain the levels of support for all Austrian and US Fulbright students as of the 2022–23 program year. Fulbright Austria’s annual “Thank Fulbright – Thanksgiving” event was again well received; more than 70 members of the community collectively donated over €10,000 during this annual call for support. In light of COVID-19, the 2021 event was transformed from the traditional in-person event and Thanksgiving dinner into a virtual event streamed on Fulbright Austria’s YouTube channel. Current program participants, alums, and friends joined Fulbright Austria live to celebrate Thanksgiving on GivingTuesday (30 November 2021). During the event, the honorary co-chairs of Fulbright Austria’s board and the president of the Austrian Fulbright Alumni association shared special messages with the Fulbright Austria community. The video also featured a selection of messages of thanks from the annual “Full of thanks.” campaign on social media. While we enjoyed the online event we’re looking forward to the next in-person “Thank Fulbright –Thanksgiving” event, which took place in November 2022. As part of its efforts to increase community engagement and support on both sides of the Atlantic, Fulbright Austria established the Fulbright Austria Alum Advisory Panel in 2017. Members of the panel rotate every two years and provide advice on fundraising and development initiatives. On 1 April 2021, Fulbright Austria welcomed two new panel members from the US. The 2022 panel includes four former Austrian Fulbright students, one former Austrian Fulbright scholar, two former US Fulbright scholars, two former USTAs, two former US combined grantees, the alumni relations manager, and the executive director.

DONOR VOICES

VOLUNTEER

“There is nothing quite like relocating to a new country. University enrollment, residency registration, opening a bank account, accessing healthcare, and finding housing: all of this is time-consuming and expensive. That makes it all the more impressive how Fulbright Austria has orchestrated transatlantic transitions for hundreds of Austrians and Americans. Thanks to Fulbright Austria, a robust support system of staff and alums were there for me during those wide-eyed, confusing moments of culture shock. Now, as a volunteer for Fulbright Austria, I am part of this very support system that I needed as a new program participant. Fundraising to help program participants with higher financial barriers to participate is my way of promoting the Fulbright mission of mutual understanding. Your financial support makes the Fulbright mission happen.”

RETURNING DONORS

“I was a Fulbright research scholar at the University and Biocenter Vienna from September 1992 to August 1993. In addition to my Fulbright research scholarship having a profound effect on me professionally, the year in Austria was filled with amazing cultural experiences, spawned many new lifelong friendships, and was highlighted by the birth of our daughter (rumored to be the first ever for a US Fulbrighter in Vienna). I donate my time, expertise, and funds to support the Fulbright Program, with the goal of providing opportunities for the professional and cultural enrichment of others who will subsequently come to Austria. My hope is that their experience will be a very positive one and as profoundly life-changing as mine.”

FIRST-TIME DONOR

“When I learned I had won a Fulbright grant, I thought all my dreams had come true, and they had! However, looking back, I realize now that what seemed like an arrival was in fact only the beginning. The Fulbright grant has opened doors for my career as a university professor, for my research into the Viennese oboe, and for what I’m certain will be lifelong friendships and collaborations with musicians in Vienna. What I love most about Fulbright and its mission is how it implores us to pay our opportunities forward. Whether through our teaching, publication, or even performing, we share what Fulbright has given us with others in our communities. That’s why I chose to donate to Fulbright, because a gift to Fulbright is a gift that can be perpetuated beyond the individual recipient.”

Abby Held
US Fulbright Student
2016–17

“I am so grateful for my Fulbright experience as a student and FLTA at the College of Wooster in Ohio in 1968–69. It provided me with the unique and enriching opportunity to shape and broaden my intellectual horizons. On my frequent travels through the US during that year, I also got to know the wonderful hospitality of the Americans—many of them have become lifelong friends. The Fulbright scholarship perfectly prepared me for my career as a translator, organist, and professor at IES Vienna. I celebrated my 50th teaching anniversary this past February, and I still greatly enjoy working with motivated US students. With my contribution, I would like to say thank you to Fulbright and to support young Fulbrighters during their unforgettable adventure.”

1	GRANT EURO from Fulbright Austria triggers €1.57 of additional support from US institutions. Austrian Fulbright students received $434,766 (€446,004) in grants and $684,193 (€701,880) from US host institutions in the form of tuition waivers and scholarships.

Fulbright awards change lives and enhance careers. The Austrian Fulbright Student Program provides generous financial and administrative support to Austrian students and young professionals who have completed their first degrees and are interested in pursuing a master’s degree in the US.

Fulbright Austria works with its partners at the Institute for International Education (IIE) in New York City to provide comprehensive support to candidates that begins with coaching students on how to optimize their applications. Candidates identify programs of their choice in a wide range of disciplines, select and apply to four of the 1,600 US universities, and are often accepted to multiple institutions. Accepted candidates receive a scholarship of up to $35,000 from Fulbright Austria subsidized entirely by the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research, and the US institutions they decide to attend often provide additional financial support. In the 2021–22 program year, the total value of the additional support institutions provided was considerable, significantly reducing the personal investments made by grantees in order to finance their education and relocation to the US. Fulbright students enhance their skill sets in challenging programs of their own choice and enjoy all of the benefits of being members of an international network of Fulbrighters in the US. They enjoy the ongoing support of Fulbright Austria and IIE throughout their stay, including enrichment seminars in the US that allow them to deepen relationships not just with US citizens, but also with Fulbright students from countries around the globe.

ZAHRA HASSAN

I am truly grateful for the Fulbright network and all its connections. I can already feel how this experience is making me more humble and teaching me just how much we need each other.

OVER 76 PERCENT OF THE €294,182 OF SUPPORT THAT US FULBRIGHT STUDENTS RECEIVED AS GRANTS, SALARIES, AND IN-KIND SUPPORT CAME FROM AUSTRIAN INSTITUTIONS.

The US Fulbright Student Program annually provides a diverse cohort of recent graduates and graduate students as well as PhD candidates from institutions all over the US with opportunities to study or conduct research in Austria. US Fulbright students seek affiliation with Austrian institutions that specialize in their fields of interest and come from all disciplines. More than half of the US Fulbright students also work part-time as secondary-school teaching assistants as recipients of the so-called Combined Grant and the Community-Based Combined Grant. The former pairs the teaching assignment with a research project, while the latter pairs the teaching assignment with volunteer work at a local community or cultural organization. Both of these grants are opportunities that are unique to Fulbright Austria.

Fulbright Austria receives support from generous partners who fund nearly all of the awards brokered by Fulbright Austria. In the 2021–22 program year, Fulbright Austria welcomed five US students to ten institutions of higher education across Austria. The 2021–22 cohort included five Fulbright-Austrian Marshall Plan Foundation Awards, four Fulbright-Mach Awards for doctoral candidates, one Fulbright-IFK Junior Visiting Fellow in cultural studies, seven combined grants, and three community-based combined grants. In addition to monthly maintenance awards, all grantees received a comprehensive benefits package that included tuition waivers and health coverage. During the past program year, US Fulbright students engaged with questions of Austrian-Jewish identity in the context of a 2019 amendment to the Austrian Nationality Act, investigated canine-human relations, and probed the role of artificial intelligence in musical artistic expression.

KATHLEEN JOHNSON

The strong relationships I developed were integral to my grant experience. Far from being a lonely year, I formed cherished friendships with Austrians, fellow US Fulbright grantees, and people from other parts of the world. Thanks to technology, those friendships remain strong today. My grant experience was especially rewarding from a music research and performance perspective. Due to the mostly unstructured nature of my research grant, I had the gift and challenge of time. The independent aspect of my year abroad also allowed me to metabolize and integrate technical concepts from years of voice training. I found myself reconnecting with my own voice and my love of singing. In multiple regards during my grant year, I learned to trust myself, and it resulted in increased confidence and self-reliance. I will be processing with gratitude my experiences in Austria as a US Fulbright student for years to come.

The Austrian Fulbright Scholar Program serves up-and-coming as well as established scholars. It provides early- and mid-career professionals, academics, and researchers with opportunities to teach and pursue research at institutions in the US and simultaneously establish professional networks in a setting that stimulates bilateral collaboration and institutional linkages. In 2021–22, Fulbright Austria supported five promising Austrians in the fields of biology, business, economics, literature, and political science.

The program also provides grants for established scholars designed to promote Austrian studies and comparative Austrian-American studies in the US in particular. The Dietrich W. Botstiber Foundation has funded an award for a visiting professor of Austrian-American studies since 2012, and the University of Minnesota has cosponsored an award for a visiting professor since 2001. Furthermore, Fulbright Austria annually sponsors three to four Fulbright Grants for Teaching, Research, Career Development, or Institutional Collaboration. The 2021–22 Austrian Fulbright scholars Lore Ellen Hayek, Ingeborg Lang, Georg Reischauer, and Robert Spindler received the Fulbright Grant for Teaching, Research, Career Development, or Institutional Collaboration for their projects at Drexel University (Pennsylvania), Stanford University (California), Columbia University (New York), and Harvard University (Massachusetts). Karin Mayr-Dorn was awarded the Fulbright-Botstiber Visiting Professor of Austrian-American Studies in the United States grant for her project entitled “Local Labor Market Effects of Global Trade Disruptions” at Harvard University (Massachusetts).

INGEBORG LANG
AUSTRIAN FULBRIGHT SCHOLAR 2021–22

Scientifically, the most exciting part was to see growing and disassembling microtubules in living plant cells shooting around like fireworks. Academically, the inspiring talks and conversations with colleagues are top of my list. Socially, the enrollment of my daughter at school had the biggest impact on both of us. I am very grateful for this time—many thanks to Fulbright, to my host, Carnegie Institution for Science at Stanford University, and to my home, the University of Vienna!

US FULBRIGHT SCHOLAR PROGRAM

The US Fulbright Scholar Program offers exciting opportunities for leading US academics and artists to engage with students and faculty at Fulbright Austria’s wide variety of partner institutions, which include universities, universities of applied sciences, research centers, and museums all over Austria. It annually provides up to 25 scholars, scientists, professionals, and artists with awards conceived to facilitate a flexible combination of teaching and research. A Fulbright award frequently functions as a catalyst for ongoing institutional relationships—Fulbright grantees and their Austrian hosts often embark on joint research projects, publish collaborative papers, or develop staff and student exchange programs. In 2021–22, Fulbright Austria placed grantees—whose expertise included area studies, arts, biology, business, computer science, drama/theater arts, environmental sciences, film/cinema studies, geology, history, information sciences/systems, journalism, mathematics, and psychology—at institutions across Austria.

Grantees receive a maintenance stipend, a travel subsidy, and program-related health benefits as well as ongoing support from Fulbright Austria prior to and during their grant period. The fact that Austria consistently ranks among the top-ten destinations in the world for US Fulbright scholars is a testament to its partners’ commitment to international collaboration and exchange—as is the fact that they provide the lion’s share of funding for these awards.

VAHAB POURNAGHSHBAND
US FULBRIGHT SCHOLAR 2021–22

Having visited over 110 countries, I can confidently affirm that the experience of living abroad enables a person to become immersed in culture and cultivate a true appreciation for other people. The Fulbright program fosters such opportunities in an ideal way. My host university went above and beyond to facilitate this cultural experience and show me the true meaning of Austrian hospitality.

In addition to the personal enrichment I gained through the Fulbright grant, I also benefited professionally in several ways. I learned to understand Austria’s student population, which will help me create a more effective learning environment for international students at my university. In my area of research, cybersecurity, collaboration with Austrian researchers generated opportunities for me to learn about research problems that are a national priority in Austria as well as across Europe generally. The Fulbright Program connected me with other US scholars in my cohort—an enriching experience that I didn’t anticipate.

I regard the four months of my grant as the very beginning of a long-term collaboration, and I look forward to seeing how it continues to develop and grow. My wonderful experience with Fulbright Austria encourages me to pursue another Fulbright grant in the near future. In the meantime, I will gladly be a cultural ambassador for Austria when I return home.

FULBRIGHT SPECIALIST PROGRAM

The Fulbright Specialist Program allows Austrian host institutions to invite highly qualified US academics and professionals for short-term visits of two to six weeks. Program participants can apply their knowledge and expertise to a diverse array of activities, including consulting on faculty or workforce development, developing academic training curricula and materials, mentoring graduate students and junior faculty, advising research groups, and establishing new exchange programs or other forms of institutional collaboration. After a competitive screening and selection process, academics on the roster are eligible to be matched with approved projects designed by Austrian host institutions.

I consider myself tremendously lucky to be the recipient of a Fulbright grant to Austria. I can say unequivocally that the program enriched my teaching and research practices. Working with the students, faculty, and staff at my host institution offered occasions to deepen my own understanding of how technologies can be used in educational settings, demonstrated how culture and technology intersect to inform practice, and continue to serve as the cornerstone for further partnerships. The insights that I learned from working with these individuals continue to impact my professional practices. On a more personal note, engaging with the people of Vienna provided opportunities both big and small to learn about myself and to gain perspective on the wider world. Even though the program took place during the pandemic, my Fulbright grant allowed me the chance to truly experience the culture in a more immersive manner than would have been possible in an alternative format. I firmly believe that the benefit of any international experience is to not only learn about other cultures but to also learn about ourselves. Through that insight, we learn how we can better serve the communities with which we interact. The strength of a Fulbright grant is that it provides opportunities to immerse ourselves substantially enough to move beyond the surface and into the deeper levels of learning about ourselves and others.

This program year, Fulbright Austria was excited to have four grantees in the Fulbright-Schuman European Union Affairs Program, a program managed by the Fulbright commission in Belgium that sends EU citizens to the US and US citizens to various EU countries. Pia Andres and Fabian Schipfer participated in the Fulbright-Schuman European Union Affairs Program in the US as an Austrian Fulbright-Schuman student and an Austrian Fulbright-Schuman scholar, respectively. Fulbright Austria was honored to host Jonathan LoTempio and Shea Rhodes as a US Fulbright-Schuman student and US Fulbright-Schuman scholar in Austria, respectively.

Participants in the Foreign Language Teaching Assistant (FLTA) program spend an academic year living, teaching, and studying on a US university campus. Each year, Fulbright Austria matches FLTAs with host institutions located from coast to coast, where they work together with experienced professors of German in both formal and informal settings. FLTAs use their skills as native speakers to enliven their classrooms and share Austrian culture with their students.

In the 2021–22 program year, Fulbright Austria placed six FLTAs at universities and liberal arts colleges in six states. FLTAs received a generous, customized package from their host institutions as well as a tailor-made maintenance grant from Fulbright Austria conceived to ensure that all FLTAs receive fundamentally the same level of support. Each host institution waived tuition for two courses, which allowed FLTAs to pursue their individual academic interests on a part-time basis. They also provided FLTAs with on-campus room and board and a small stipend or a stipend large enough to cover living expenses, accommodations, and meals. Fulbright Austria also provided each FLTA with a travel grant to subsidize their flights to and from the US.

The FLTAs' year in the US provided them with valuable first-hand knowledge of the diverse fabric of life in the US. In addition to their academic responsibilities, FLTAs also immersed themselves in their local communities and forged lasting friendships with US students.

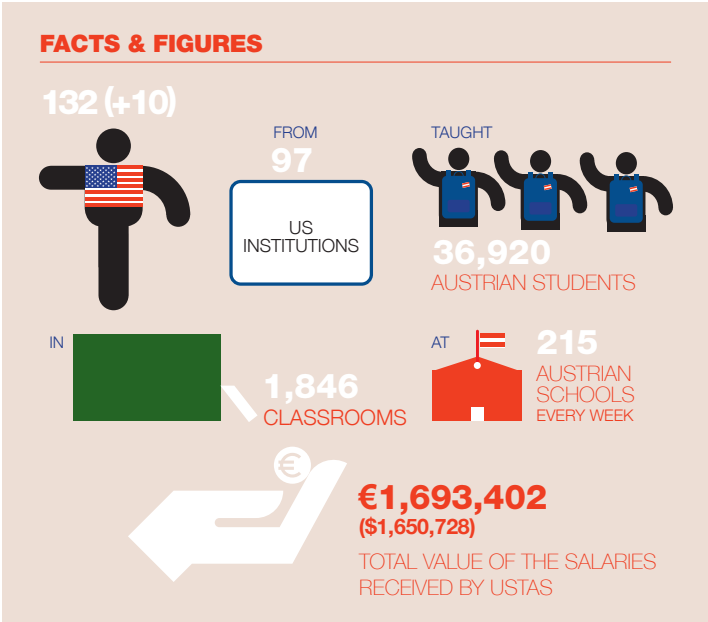

CARLA HAROLD
Austrian FLTA 2021–22

I first heard about the FLTA Program in a course at university early on in my studies and had thought about applying ever since. Originally, I was hesitant about applying—knowing how prestigious the program was, I thought I would never get in. When I was accepted and finally matched with Dartmouth College, I thought I had been sent the wrong acceptance email. Having heard of Dartmouth before, I knew what a prestigious institution it was and could not believe that I would be sent there. Looking back, I would say it ended up being a great match.

I have made connections through the FLTA program across the globe that remain strong to this day, and I plan to visit Dartmouth again soon. I am truly grateful for the experiences I have been able to have. Joining the Fulbright Program can be a once-in-a-lifetime experience, but it can also open doors to opportunities I never thought I would have.

US TEACHING ASSISTANTSHIP PROGRAM

Fulbright Austria has been instrumental in administering the US Teaching Assistantship program for the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research (BMBWF) since the program’s inception in 1962. This program has continuously grown over the years, and Fulbright Austria is proud to include the USTA program in its portfolio of academic and cultural exchange.

In the 2021–22 program year, Fulbright Austria was instrumental in administering the placement of US citizens in secondary schools in communities large and small all over Austria in a program funded completely by the BMBWF. Each USTA received a part-time salary and was fully insured in the Austrian healthcare system as compensation for sharing their understanding of the US in Austrian classrooms for 13 hours per week. They animated English-language instruction and simultaneously gave Austrian students a better feeling for American culture—in all of its diversity. In light of the USTAs’ different backgrounds, the young Austrians they interacted with developed a more nuanced perspective on the United States. The USTAs also gained deep insights into Austrian culture by actively participating in their respective communities. Some enrolled at Austrian universities, and others volunteered at NGOs or joined local groups such as choirs, dance troupes, and sports clubs. All of them improved their German-language skills while living in Austria and returned to the US with a more profound understanding of the country and its people.

JULIA PETRON
USTA 2020–22

My two years as a USTA showed me the powerful role of international education and exchange in creating deeper connections between people who, at first glance, may not seem to have much in common. Sharing everyday interactions in an educational setting creates opportunities for exchanges that bring people who would not have otherwise met closer to each other and brings us to the realization that we all have much more in common than we think. This was definitely the case in my classroom as a USTA. Yes, my students learned from me, but I feel that I learned much more from them. Through our English lessons, openness with one another, and bonding moments, we discovered that we share much more of our lived experiences than we initially expected. Our relationships with one another embody Fulbright’s mission to promote greater mutual understanding. It is through these relationships that we can continue to live in peace and friendship.

After a year teaching English in Austrian secondary-school classrooms, USTAs gather in Vienna for the annual "going-away Heuriger" event.

NUMBER OF USTAs

Fulbright Austria has handled advising in Austria as part of its “broad mandate” to promote mutual understanding since its inception in 1950 and serves as a clearinghouse for US queries about educational opportunities in Austria and the US. It is a part of EducationUSA, a US Department of State-supported network of hundreds of advising centers around the world devoted to providing international students with accurate, comprehensive, and current information about how to apply to US colleges and universities. Fulbright Austria’s EducationUSA advises students by phone, by email, using teleconference tools, or in person about their unique academic situations and is the contact point for US university representatives interested in learning more about higher education in Austria.

One of the ways that EducationUSA works to promote access to US higher education in Austria is by attending various educational fairs that take place in Austria throughout the year. EducationUSA has been a mainstay at the BeSt3 – the Job, Training and Education Fair in Vienna, Austria’s largest education fair, since 2015. At the BeSt3, EducationUSA advises students interested in studying in the US in one-on-one conversations and in formal presentations on diverse topics, such as scholarship opportunities, US university applications, and interviews. EducationUSA is also active on social media. In addition to supplying relevant articles and resources related to studying in the US on a weekly basis, EducationUSA offers regular webinars that cover a broad range of topics, including how to finance your education, navigating university life as an international student, and resources for students with disabilities.

HISTORY STRUCTURE AND GOVERNANCE

HISTORY AND STRUCTURE

The Fulbright Program is named after J. William Fulbright (1905–1995), the US senator from Arkansas (D - 1945–75) who conceived of and sponsored the legislation that established it in 1946. The Fulbright Act ingeniously converted the proverbial swords of war into plowshares of peace after World War II by authorizing the secretary of state to use proceeds from the sale of surplus war property overseas to finance an unprecedented number of bilateral educational exchanges of students, teachers, and scholars between the United States and other countries. It was a visionary and pioneering initiative that laid the foundations for the development of educational exchange programs and study abroad in the US as well as international educational exchange globally.

Between 1948 and 1953, a unique requirement of the Fulbright Act called for the establishment of binational commissions with binational boards in the 28 countries in Europe, Asia, and the Pacific where revenues from the sale of wartime surpluses were available. These commissions were entrusted with managing the revenues earmarked for the program and responsible for decision-making and on-site management. The US Educational Commission in Austria—popularly called the “Fulbright commission”—was established in 1950, and Fulbright Austria is proud to be among the first generation of binational Fulbright commissions that form the philosophical, historical, institutional, and financial core of the program. There are 49 binational Fulbright commissions worldwide today that account for 80 percent of the program’s 380,000 US and international alums, who annually contribute over $100 million to the program.

After revenues from the sale of wartime surpluses were exhausted, Congress passed the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961—better known as the Fulbright-Hays Act—to broaden the scope of the Fulbright Program, give it new flexibility, and to provide an annual appropriation for its funding as a line item in the federal budget. It also gave partner governments and other public and private organizations in countries with binational commissions the all-important opportunity to contribute toward the costs of the program.

The Fulbright-Hays Act of 1961 coupled with the bilateral “Agreement between the Federal Government of Austria and the Government of the United States of America for the financing of certain educational and cultural exchange programs” of 1963 (Austrian Federal Register (Bundesgesetz-blatt) 1963/213) form the current statutory basis of the Austrian-American program. This revised bilateral agreement reestablished, reorganized, and renamed the old US Educational Commission in Austria and reinvented it as the Austrian-American Educational Commission, a binational organization capable of receiving and disbursing funds for exchange programs from both governments, other public and private organizations, and individuals.

The importance of this new agreement was not only that it enabled the partner governments to start sharing the costs of the program, which had initially been funded exclusively with US revenues. It also provided other public and private partners in Austria and the United States with opportunities to make additional cash and in-kind contributions to the program. The Republic of Austria was among the first countries in the world to start cost-sharing in the 1960s, and it has supported the Austrian-American program vigorously ever since. Fulbright Austria’s network of institutional partners accounts for the lion’s share of the cash and in-kind support Austrian and American grantees enjoy under the auspices of the Fulbright Program today. The key to the success of Fulbright Austria has been the quality of the relationships it has cultivated with an extensive network of institutional partners on both sides of the Atlantic.

The challenges associated with international educational exchange have changed dramatically since the inception of the Fulbright Program after World War II. Fulbright Austria has confronted the dual challenges of climbing costs and increasing pressures on the discretionary funding in government budgets for education and culture with the help of an expanding network of institutional partners that augment its core revenue through their manifold cash and in-kind contributions. In 2017, the Fulbright Austria board made the strategic decision to energetically pursue fundraising and development in order to give Austrian and American alums the chance to ensure that future generations of Fulbrighters will have the same kinds of life-changing opportunities that they enjoyed in the past.

Donations to Fulbright Austria are tax deductible in Austria according to Austrian income tax law, and in the United States based on a transnational giving agreement with the New York-based Institute for International Education, a registered 501(c)(3) and nonprofit that assists in the management of the stateside agendas of the Fulbright Program.

FULBRIGHT AUSTRIA BOARD AND STAFF

The Fulbright Austria board consists of ten members: five US citizens and five Austrian citizens who are nominated by their respective governments to serve on an annual basis. The five US members, including two Foreign Service officers from the US embassy in Vienna, are nominated by the US ambassador to Austria. Two of the five Austrian members appointed by the Austrian government have traditionally been representatives of the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research (responsible for higher education) and the Austrian Federal Ministry for Europe, Integration and Foreign Affairs, respectively, and three have been Austrian professors. The date of the initial appointment of each member is noted in parentheses.

Fulbright Austria has been proud to call the MuseumsQuartier Wien its home since 2008 and is fortunate to be one of the institutions supported by Q21, an umbrella organization that provides workspaces for a community of some 50 cultural initiatives, organizations, agencies, and editorial offices working in the cultural sector.

Binational funding as well as joint policy and decision-making are signature attributes of Fulbright commissions. The Fulbright Austria board meets on a regular basis to discuss budgetary, policy, procedural, and program issues, and it has a number of subcommittees that meet on an ad hoc basis. The board is actively involved in the selection and nomination of all Austrian and US Fulbright candidates and solicits the support of external experts, Austrian and US Fulbright alumni, and on-site US Fulbright scholars for binational candidate review panels. The chairperson and the treasurer of the board are elected each year and rotate annually between the Austrian and US members of the board.

The executive director of Fulbright Austria is responsible for the coordination and management of Fulbright Austria’s agendas, operations, and staff. He reports to and is monitored by the Fulbright Austria board.

The Austrian minister responsible for higher education and the ambassador of the United States of America to Austria serve as honorary chairpersons of Fulbright Austria.

PARTNER INSTITUTIONS

PARTNER INSTITUTIONS

Fulbright Austria is fortunate to work with a wide variety of governmental and nongovernmental institutions as well as colleges, universities, and private foundations in Austria and the United States. In 2021–22, these partners included:

Austrian Federal Ministry for European and International Affairs
Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research
J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board, Washington, DC
US Department of State: Bureau for Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA) and EducationUSA
The Embassy of the United States in Austria (Public Affairs Section)

ECA contracts with a variety of so-called cooperating agencies in the US to assist the US Department of State, binational Fulbright commissions, and US embassies with the stateside management of certain aspects of the program, and it also covers the associated costs. Their services include managing the recruitment, applications, and preliminary screening of US students and scholars for Fulbright awards abroad and assisting inbound international Fulbright grantees with applications for programs, placement, orientation, and on-site support. The cooperating agencies that collaborate with Fulbright Austria include:

Institute of International Education, New York, New York
(all Fulbright students and scholars and Austrian FLTAs)
World Learning, Washington, DC (Fulbright Specialists)

Since 1997, Fulbright Austria has established a broad range of strategic partnerships with a wide variety of universities, universities of applied sciences, research centers, museums, and foundations in Austria and the US, which has allowed it to substantially increase the number of grants it awards to US students and scholars, in particular. To date, Fulbright Austria has concluded sponsorship and cost-sharing agreements with 24 different institutions in Austria as well as with the University of Minnesota, the Craig and Kathryn Hall Foundation (Texas), the Dietrich W. Botstiber Foundation (Pennsylvania), and the Rosemary and David Good Family Foundation (Minnesota) in the US. The following awards hyphenated with the names of their respective host institutions or sponsors to acknowledge their valuable support:

Fulbright-Freud (Sigmund Freud Privatstiftung) Visiting Lecturer of Psychoanalysis (1997)
Fulbright-Internationales Forschungszentrum Kulturwissenschaften an der Kunstuniversität Linz (IFK) Junior Fellowship (1997)
Fulbright-Internationales Forschungszentrum Kulturwissenschaften an der Kunstuniversität Linz (IFK) Senior Fellow in Cultural Studies (1997)
Fulbright-Karl Franzens University Graz Visiting Professor (1998)
Fulbright-University of Innsbruck Visiting Professor (1998)
Fulbright-University of Salzburg Visiting Professor (1998)
Fulbright-University of Vienna Visiting Professor of Social Sciences (1998)
Fulbright–Alpen-Adria-Universität Klagenfurt Visiting Professor (rotating) (1999)
Fulbright Visiting Professor at the University of Minnesota (Social Sciences, Humanities, or Fine Arts) (1999)
Fulbright-Diplomatic Academy Visiting Professor of International Studies (1999)

US host institutions provided their Austrian foreign-language teaching assistants (FLTAs) with generous tailor-made support packages consisting of salaries, stipends, grants or work-study awards, room and board, and tuition remission for two courses per semester. These packages covered the great majority of on-site costs associated with the FLTAs’ awards. German departments at the following six US colleges and universities hosted Austrian teaching assistants under the auspices of the FLTA program:

- 1. Agnes Scott College
- 2. Bates College
- 3. College of Wooster
- 4. Dartmouth College
- 5. University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign
- 6. University of Oklahoma

The following ten US institutions augmented Austrian Fulbright students’ grants with additional scholarships, stipends, or tuition remissions to facilitate the students’ enrollment in their respective graduate programs:

- 1. Carnegie Mellon University
- 2. Columbia University
- 3. Georgetown University
- 4. New York University
- 5. School of the Art Institute of Chicago
- 6. Tulane University
- 7. University of Chicago
- 8. University of Michigan-Ann Arbor
- 9. University of Virginia
- 10. University of California, Berkeley

Within the framework of Fulbright grants, the following eight Austrian universities remitted tuition (€747 per semester) for all US Fulbright students:

- 1. Johannes Kepler University Linz
- 2. Medical University of Vienna
- 3. Medical University of Graz
- 4. University of Vienna
- 5. University of Innsbruck
- 6. University of Salzburg
- 7. University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna
- 8. University of Veterinary Medicine Vienna

FUNDING FULBRIGHT AUSTRIA

FUNDING FULBRIGHT AUSTRIA

CREATING OPPORTUNITIES WITH PARTNERS

The total value of all programs and opportunities facilitated by Fulbright Austria during the 2021–22 program year was $4,767,396 (€4,890,640) (45): $3,116,668 (€3,197,239) for the binational Fulbright Program jointly funded by both governments with substantial contributions from partner institutions in Austria and the United States (43) and $1,650,728 (€1,693,402) for the US Teaching Assistantship Program in Austria unilaterally funded by the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research (44).

Fulbright Program administration (24) and programming for the enhancement of grants, educational advising (EducationUSA), and the administration of the US Teaching Assistantship Program (25), accounted for 11.5 and 3.1 percent respectively of the total value of all programs.

The annual audit of Fulbright Austria captures all of the income received (13) and expenses incurred (28). Fulbright Austria has five different source of revenue: i) discretionary core funding from both governments; ii) dedicated funding from governments and institutional partners earmarked for specific activities or grants; iii) revenues associated with services rendered; iv) revenue from the AAEC Trust Fund; and v) donations to the Fulbright Austria Opportunity Fund.

Fulbright Austria receives annual discretionary core funding from the US Department of State’s Bureau for Educational and Cultural Affairs (1) and the Austrian Federal Ministry of Education, Science and Research (BMBWF) (3). These core contributions are primarily used to fund the costs of administrating the Fulbright Program proper (24) and other grant-enhancing activities, educational advising, and the administration of the BMBWF’s US Teaching Assistantship Program (25). These costs are also defrayed by some additional annual US governmental sources that are earmarked for specific purposes (2) as well as support received for services rendered related to the administration of the BMBWF’s US Teaching Assistantship Program (6). Fulbright Austria drew down $1,950 (€2,000) from donations made to Fulbright Austria Opportunity Fund for grants from Austria (8) and $6,726 (€6,900) from donations made to Fulbright Austria Opportunity Fund for grants from the US (9) and received $34,073 (€34,954) from partners for administrative overheads (10). This year Fulbright Austria generated $32,104 (€32,934) from adjustments and other incomes and did not drawdown from its AAEC Trust Fund to subsidize program costs (11).

Fulbright Austria uses the discretionary core funding from both governments (1 and 3) to manage or leverage additional dedicated revenue for the program. Consequently, the lion’s share of the revenue for grants dedicated funding from Austrian public sources or derived from Fulbright Austria’s broad network of institutional partnerships. The Austrian government directly provides funding earmarked for the costs of all grants for Austrian Fulbright students enrolled in US postgraduate programs (4) as well as some awards for US research students in Austria (5). Income from institutional partners is almost exclusively used to fund grants for US scholars and a number of US students (7).

Fulbright Austria expended a total of $1,061,069 (€1,088,499) on grants (23): $532,906 (€546,682) for Austrian grantees (14–16, 21) and $528,163 (€541,817) for US grantees (18–19, 22).

LEVERAGING VALUE

Fulbright Austria effectively more than doubled the impact of every dollar spent on grants (23) by leveraging another dollar of additional support for grantees (42). Austrian and US grantees receive these cash or in-kind benefits under the auspices of their awards directly on site from partner institutions in the form of salaries, additional scholarships, stipends, tuition remissions, room and board, housing, or other benefits.

The total value of the additional direct and in-kind support that Fulbright grantees received under the auspices of their Fulbright awards during the 2021–22 program year was $1,354,909 (€1,389,935) (42): $1,059,961 (€1,087,363) for Austrian grantees (34) and $294,948 (€302,572) for US grantees (41).

Fulbright Austria grantees received a total of $2,415,978 (€2,478,435 €) in support in grants and other forms of additional direct and in-kind support (23 + 42) during the 2021–22 program year.

Since 1962, Fulbright Austria has been instrumental in administering the recruitment, screening, and placement of US college and university graduates in the teaching assistantship program funded by the BMBWF outside of the Fulbright Program architecture, and the opportunities it brokered for 132 US teaching assistants and 10 US Fulbright combined grantees at Austrian secondary schools during the 2021–22 program year represented $1,650,728 (€1,693,402) and $125,055 (€128,288) in value (44, 40), respectively. US teaching assistants do not apply for Fulbright awards in the US, nor do they receive Fulbright grants in Vienna. Fulbright Austria directly handles applications for this BMBWF-funded program and collaborates with the Austrian authorities to select and place finalists as salaried, part-time teachers, who also receive comprehensive medical insurance coverage at Austrian secondary schools.

THE FULBRIGHT AUSTRIA OPPORTUNITY FUND

In the course of its strategic planning exercise “Fulbright in the 21st Century” in 2016, the Fulbright Austria board decided to develop its fundraising and development capacities in order to respond to a number of structural challenges associated with ongoing tight public spending for education and culture, inflationary pressures, and increasing costs. Vice Chanellor Reinhold Mitterlehner, who was the minister for science, research and economy at the time, enthusiastically greeted this initiative by providing Fulbright Austria with a grant of €150,000 to incentivize giving by matching donations made in Austria 1:1, and Fulbright Austria actively started soliciting donations in the 2017–18 program year. In 2020 Federal Minister Heinz Faßmann renewed this initiative with an additional grant of €150,000 to continue matching donations made in Austria.

All donations made to Fulbright Austria directly or to the Institute of International Education in New York City for Fulbright Austria under the auspices of a transnational giving agreement are tax deductible in Austria and the US, respectively. The Fulbright Austria Opportunity Fund holds all monies donated as deferred income to cover grant related expenses in the current and future program years. It had a balance of €320,828 on 30 September 2022.

Support from the friends, associates, and alums of Fulbright Austria programs plays a critical role in Fulbright Austria’s ability to ensure that the opportunities it has created and facilitated for so many grantees in the past will be available and accessible to a new generation of Fulbrighters in the future.
